Your morning jolt: Grover Norquist, tea party split on tax overhaul

9:00 am March 30, 2011, by jgalloway

"I commend the legislature and Gov. [Nathan] Deal for recognizing that tax reform can never include tax increases," Norquist continued. "That axiom is reflected in this amended legislation, which is in compliance with the Taxpayer Protection Pledge."

But Georgia Tea Party Patriots this morning is urging lawmakers to vote against it:

"One can not just look at the tax rate cut, one has to look at the deductions/exemptions that are slashed and, in many cases, removed in this bill. Taxes will be raised for some and will be cut for others. In other words, this bill re-distributes wealth."

Your morning jolt: Girl Scouts ticked over cookie tax

9:31 am March 7, 2011, by jgalloway

Be prepared, lawmakers:

Over the weekend, an e-mail went out to Girl Scout leaders, warning them that HB 385, a bill to rewrite the state tax code, would subject their cookies to a sales tax – and would hit Boy Scout popcorn sales as well:

Business owners share concerns about tax law changes

Tax laws could change

"A haircut is something that's a repeat service. People come every four to six weeks, so it would add up," said Thelen, who owns Modish Salon & Spa on Broad Street. "I think it would hurt us in the long run."

"I don't feel good about auto repair being taxed," Clements said. "People are already paying a huge amount of money for gas to drive their car ... it's almost like salt in the wound."

Dr. Thomas Walker of Augusta's Highland Animal Hospital also thought it was a bad time to tax pet owners.

"Already we're seeing an increased number of abandoned pets," he said. "With the economy the way it is, animal shelters are overloaded. People just can't afford it."

2011 Legislation

- Sales tax on casual sales of motor vehicles, aircraft and vessels
- Sales tax exemption for energy used in production
- Tax on maintenance, repairs, and installation services for motor vehicles
- The Council's communication tax proposal
